Area medical student to serve on Board of Trustees of state's largest physician organization

INDIANAPOLIS – Lyndsay Oancea of Munster has started a one-year term as an alternate on the Indiana State Medical Association (ISMA) Board of Trustees. Oancea will serve as an alternate trustee representing the organization's component Medical Student Society.

Established in 1849, the ISMA today has approximately 8,000 physician members from every county in Indiana. The organization works to promote sound health care policy in the public, private and governmental sectors and to support continuing medical education for the state's physicians.
