

Effective screening for domestic violence

Learn techniques for a more comfortable conversation

Attend this FREE online seminar sponsored by the ISMA's Family Violence Committee and learn how you can reduce incidences of domestic violence by effectively screening your patients.

Presented by DaWanna L. Stubbs, M.D., M.S., assistant professor of Clinical Medicine, IU School of Medicine, the session will teach you how to:

- Approach a patient about intimate partner violence (IPV) in a variety of health care settings
- Recognize certain behaviors and injuries that may indicate abuse
- Apply intervention techniques if a patient screens positive for IPV
- Apply methods for good medical documentation of abuse

Join us

Wednesday, June 30, at 12 noon EST.
CME credit will be available.

Who should attend?

- Primary care physicians
- Residents
- Medical students

Watch for more details coming soon.

For information, call the ISMA at (800) 257-4762 or (317) 261-2060.

