

The Indiana State Medical Association (ISMA) is Indiana's largest physician organization, representing physicians across specialties, career stages, and practice settings. ISMA approaches its work through the lens of what physicians experience every day in practice, ensuring Indiana remains a great place to practice medicine and for patients to receive the highest-quality care.

The ISMA Resident & Fellow Society (RFS), established in 1984, empowers physicians in training to shape the future of medicine. You are on the front lines of medicine, so your voice is critical in advancing public policy and protecting physician-led, patient-centered care.

Why Join RFS?

Advocate for Your Profession

RFS represents physicians on key legislative and regulatory issues protecting you, your profession, and your patients. Meet and build relationships with legislators who will impact Indiana legislation.

Shape Health Policy

Submit resolutions that can become part of ISMA's policy and, in turn, help influence state laws and regulations.
